The Young Men's Christian Association.

It is a noticeable fact that all the great religious movements have had their birth when the demand for their existence seemed imperative. In the darkest period of the world's history the golden light of christianity dawned. When spiritual things had become a mere memory and religion was used like charity, to cover a multitude of sins, there broke forth in all his fiery impetuosity the hero Luther. Following this came the great missionary movement; then Robert Raikes, with his Sunday school ideas; and, after a space, what Dr. Hendrix calls "The Religious Movement of the Nineteenth Century," the Young Men's Christian association.

What is this association? What does it aim to do, and what does it leave undone?

The association is an organization managed by Christian men upon a Christian business basis; an adjunct to the churches; a sharp-shooter; an angler in special waters. Its aim is to rescue, elevate, educate and redeem young men, and it calls into use every legitimate means for the accomplishment of its high purpose. It is a rendezvous for any manly fellow who, though willing to help himself, can not, without some friendly hand, swing onto bed-rock. It is a center for the development of strong, healthy religious tone, where cant is held at a discount and an honest confession, to have any weight, must be backed by an honest living.

It is not a charity organization, nor a relief society, in the ordinary parlance, nor an idlers' retreat, nor a mutual admiration society, nor a place for hobby riders to vent their opinions, nor a trying-spot for those who are dissatisfied with the way the church is managed and make this neutral ground a starting point to attack her. It is not organized to do a general and promiscuous religious work, having full confidence that its great mother, the church, is amply able to look after her varied interests, and calls none of her other children to neglect their specific work.

BETRAYED.

Miss Emma Hall, of Kendallville, Wedded to Elder Osborne, the Bigamist.

Farmer E. J. Hall, of Kendallville, was in the city yesterday, en route home. His erring daughter, Miss Emma, stayed at Cincinnati, to testify against Elder Osborne, her husband, who is charged with bigamy, he having before married an Ohio girl and neglected to get a divorce. Mr. Hall supplies the Globe chop house with butter and is very well known here, as is also his daughter, she having visited here last summer a month.

Elder Osborne tells this story: "I went," said he, "to the Methodist university at Delaware, and after leaving that to the Baptist school at Granville. I have never been ordained a minister, but have my license to preach, and have done so frequently. My people live at Portsmouth, Ohio. About the 5th of October I went to Fort Wayne and after a brief stay there proceeded to Kendallville to visit the Hall family, distant relatives of ours. I occupied the Baptist pulpit there, and became greatly attached to members of the congregation. Finally I fell in love with Miss Hall, my half second cousin. The attraction was mutual and we made up our minds to elope, knowing from certain things—well, reports about me—that the family would oppose our union. We did elope; came to Cincinnati, and were married by Mr. Carman, on Court street. The next morning I read about Mr. Hall being in the city, and his charging that I was a horse thief, seducer and swindler. I made up my mind to give myself up to the authorities, but my wife persuaded me not to. I told her there was only one chance out of a thousand in our escaping. She said take that one; it was better than being separated. So we walked out of town, back of the Zoological Garden, and gradually made our way to Huntington, West Virginia. We walked a good deal of the way, and at times would hire farmers to take us from one town to another. We were afraid to take the train for fear of being discovered. At Huntington I assumed the name of Chase and worked for the Ensign car works. The only reason I fled when I heard the detectives were after me was that I am a christian gentleman and didn't want any trouble. I had got tired of being hunted. They told me I was charged with stealing horses and getting money under false pretenses."

"What about the horse stealing?" "I was accused about seven years ago of stealing a horse at Cleveland, but my father compromised the case, and there is nothing whatever in it now. I did borrow money from several people in Kendallville, but never over $5 at a time. I don't think that could be called obtaining money under false pretenses." "Were you ever married before?" "Yes, about four years ago in Scioto county. We lived together about four years, and have a child two years old. My wife kept leaving me. First it was only a day or so at a time; then it was months. Finally she told me she was going to leave me entirely. Afterward I saw her for the purpose of getting her to come back, but she refused, and said she obtained a divorce, and I took her word for it, and really did not feel interested enough to investigate and see if she was telling the truth. I wish now I had done so. If I got out of this trouble I will the first thing get a divorce and marry my second wife."

Miss Hall, who is a verdant looking girl, was in the city to-day, en route home. She testified against Elder Osborne at Cincinnati yesterday, and the preacher was bound over in the sum of $2,000 and held in jail to await final trial. As he left the court-room he turned savagely on the poor girl, and exclaimed fiercely: "You may go your own way, for you are your own woman." He was evidently taken aback by her testifying against him. She was taken before the grand jury, where she testified also.

IN COLD BLOOD,

Was Lex Harner Killed For His Money.

Lex Harner is the name of the young man shot, on the Jackson road, yesterday. Harner had been employed by the Lake Shore railway company as track laborer and boarded one mile north of New Era. Being very steady and economical, he had saved $500, which was deposited in a bank at Auburn. He had completed preparations to start for Wisconsin and drew his money from the bank. In company with Lew Kessler he left their boarding house an hour before he was found, yesterday, walking in the direction of New Era. Kessler boarded the train that picked up Harner and came to Fort Wayne. He left for Lima, O., via the Fort Wayne road, yesterday afternoon, where all traces of him are lost. Harner had two shotgun wounds in the head and his pockets were rifled of a watch besides the money. He was twenty-eight of age, unmarried, and had a mother residing in Wisconsin. Kessler is thirty, unmarried, and regarded as a very hard character. He has relatives living a few miles north of Lima, Ohio, where it is believed he has gone. Sheriff Boyle, of DeKalb county, returned from Lima this noon. He got no trace of Kessler, the murderer, but now thinks he is whereabouts. Sheriff Boyle now offers a reward of $100 for the fugitive, who used to buy lumber for Hoffman Bros., in the north.

A SLICK ONE.

A Fort Wayne Convict Escapes From the Prison North.

Samuel Harris, a crook who was sentenced to two and a half years in the penitentiary, has escaped from the prison north and Warden Murdock offers a reward of $100 for his capture. Harris got out over the wall and eluded the rifle balls of the guards with the agility of a cat.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: "The convict, Harris, who escaped from prison Friday night, has not been recaptured. Some people think he went to Canada, while others believe he is in Chicago. At all events if he is on Uncle Sam's soil he will have to hide pretty securely to escape apprehension. He deserves to be returned for betraying the confidence of those in charge of him."

Mr. Springer argued in favor of a division of the duties of the appropriation committee and said it would not necessarily increase the expenditures. He also favored a proposition to prohibit the incorporation of general legislation on appropriation bills.

Randall spoke in favor of the minority report opposing a division of the work of the committee on appropriation on the ground of a tendency to increase the expenditures.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 15.—The national convention of coal operators and miners, called for the purpose of arbitrating the difficulties between employers and employees and to establish a national scale of wages together with the cost of miners' supplies, which shall govern operators and men in every mine in the United States, met this morning. Fifty delegates were present from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. Addresses were made by Col. J. B. Bond and Mr. David Patterson, both advocating arbitration. The former recommended a general advance of 25 per cent. in the wages of the miners and added that operators could then get better prices for their coal.

SMALL NEWS.

The Young Men's Christian Association.

It is a noticeable fact that all the great religious movements have had their birth when the demand for their existence seemed imperative. In the darkest period of the world's history the golden light of christianity dawned. When spiritual things had become a mere memory and religion was used like charity, to cover a multitude of sins, there broke forth in all his fiery impetuosity the hero Luther. Following this came the great missionary movement; then Robert Raikes, with his Sunday school ideas; and, after a space, what Dr. Hendricks calls "The Religious Movement of the Nineteenth Century," the Young Men's Christian association.

What is this association? What does it aim to do, and what does it leave undone?

The association is an organization managed by Christian men upon a Christian business basis; an adjunct to the churches; a sharp-shooter; an angel in special waters. Its aim is to rescue, elevate, educate and redeem young men, and it calls into use every legitimate means for the accomplishment of its high purpose. It is a rendezvous for any manly fellow who, though willing to help himself, cannot, without some friendly hand, swing onto his feet. It is a center for the development of strong, healthy religious tone, where each is held at a discount and an honest confession, to have any weight, must be backed by an honest living.

It is not a charity organization, nor a relief society, in the ordinary parlance, nor an idlers' retreat, nor a mutual admiration society, nor a place for hobby riders to vent their opinions, nor a trysting-spot for those who are dissatisfied with the way the church is managed and make that neutral ground a starting point to attack her. It is not organized to do a general and promiscuous religious work, having full confidence that its great mother, the church, is amply able to look after her varied interests, and calls none of her other children to neglect their specific work.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 15.—One of the most terrible railroad accidents ever known in Georgia, occurred last night, at midnight, fifteen miles from here, on the Georgia Pacific road. The East Tennessee and Georgia Pacific road use the same track to Andalusia and last night the Georgia Pacific midnight train with a coach and one sleeper, stopped at a tank to get water. The coach and sleeper were on a trestle thirty feet high. The East Tennessee fast passenger train, going at a speed of thirty miles an hour, struck the sleeper and the engine went nearly half way through the coach. The fireman sprang overboard and received slight injuries. The engineer held to the throttle and was unhurt. The following persons on the Georgia Pacific train were killed:

Bernard Peyton, Charlottesville, Va.
Nathan Hanley, Anniston, Ala.
Jacob and Mary Banks, Jonesboro, Ga.

B. Bright and his wife and two children, Jonesboro, Ga.

BETRAYED.

Miss Emma Hall, of Kendall-

vile, Wedded to Elder

Osborne, the Bigamist.

Farmer E. J. Hall, of Kendallville, was in the city yesterday, en route home. His errand daughter, Miss Emma, stayed at Cincinnati, to testify against Elder Osborne, her husband, who is charged with bigamy, he having before married an Ohio girl and neglected to get a divorce. Mr. Hall supplies the Globe shop house with butter and is very well known here, as is also his daughter, she having visited here last summer a month.

Elder Osborne tells this story: "I went," said he, "to the Methodist university at Delaware, and after leaving that to the Baptist school at Granville. I have never been ordained a minister, but have my license to preach, and have done so frequently. My people live at Portsmouth, Ohio. About the 5th of October I went to Fort Wayne and after a brief stay there proceeded to Kendallville to visit the Hall family, distant relatives of mine. I occupied the Baptist pulpit there, and became greatly attached to members of the congregation. Finally I fell in love with Miss Hall, my half second cousin. The attraction was mutual and we made up our minds to elope, knowing from certain things—well, reports about me—that the family would oppose our union. We did elope; came to Cincinnati, and were married by Mr. Carman, on Court street. The next morning I read about Mr. Hall being in the city, and his charging that I was a horse thief, seducer and swindler. I made up my mind to give myself up to the authorities, but my wife persuaded me not to. I told her there was only one chance out of a thousand in our escaping. She said take that one; it was better than being separated. So we walked out of town, back of the Zoological Garden, and gradually made our way to Huntington, West Virginia. We walked a good deal of the way, and at times would hire farmers to take us from one town to another. We were afraid to take the train for fear of being discovered. At Huntington I assumed the name of Chase and worked for the Elgin car works. The only reason I did when I heard the detectives were after me was that I am a christian gentleman and didn't want any trouble. I had got tired of being hunted. They told me I was charged with stealing horses and getting money under false pretenses."

"What about the horse stealing?"

"I was accused about seven years ago of stealing a horse at Cleveland, but my father compromised the case, and there is nothing whatever in it now. I did borrow money from several people in Kendallville, but never over $5 at a time. I don't think that could be called obtaining money under false pretenses."

"Were you ever married before?"

"Yes, about four years ago in Scioto county. We lived together about four years, and have a child two years old. My wife kept leaving me. First it was only a day or so at a time, then it was months. Finally she told me she was going to leave me entirely. Afterward I saw her for the purpose of getting her to come back, but she refused, and said she obtained a divorce, and I took her word for it, and really did not feel interested enough to investigate and see if she was telling the truth. I wish now I had done so. If I got out of this trouble I will the first thing get a divorce and marry my second wife."

Miss Hall, who is a veritable looking girl, was in the city today, en route home. She testified against Elder Osborne at Cincinnati yesterday, and the preacher was found over in the sum of $2,000 and held in jail to await final trial. As he left the court room he turned savagely on the poor girl, and exclaimed fiercely: "You may go your own way, for you are your own woman." He was evidently taken aback by her testifying against him. She was taken before the grand jury, where she testified also.

An errand boy in a Philadelphia fancy store has just been left $500,000, but it is thought he will die early of consumption. There is nothing better for young children than are daily exposed than a spoonful or two of Dr. Hall's Cough Syrup.

LIQUOR LICENSES

Published in German Papers Declared Illegal.

By Telegram to The Sentinel.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., 15.—The remonstrance entered before the board of county commissioners by the Law and Order league against the granting of a large number of liquor licenses, on the ground that their publication was not legal, was decided yesterday morning. The notices were published in Senator Johnson's German paper, and the board decided that such publication was illegal. A very large number of licenses were therefore refused. There is much excitement among the liquor element, as this was the first move of the league toward breaking up the lawlessness that has existed and looking towards suppressing the saloons by legal means.
